GORGE CREEK

Gorge Creek consists of 606 acres which is situated right at the end of a very private valley. The property has a good combination of grazing country to run around 80 heifers but has some unique stands of rainforest and hardwoods scattered all over it.

The land itself goes from undulating valleys to a steep cliff face which becomes a natural boundary on the Southern and Western sides.

Improvements include a handy set of stockyards with a head bale plus a separate loading yard for the cattle.

There are several spring dams plus a seasonal gully, water troughs and a solar electric fence system.

The old house is still standing, just, and both titles have building entitlements. This is a getaway from it all type property and has been in the one family since the late 40's.
